Herd Improvement by Artificial Breeding

Co-Ops Can Lower Cost By Proper Management

By W. J. DEYDEN

An increasing number of dairy farmers are getting information in regard to artificial breeding as a means of improving the quality of their herds and reducing the cost of production.

In the effort to expand the use of artificial breeding, many farmers have formed co-operative associations, usually with the help of county agents and veterinary medicine.

By joining together within a certain area, farmers may exchange information on artificial breeding as sociation. This has decided advantages, chief among which is the financial one. To be successful the bulls purchased by the group must be outstanding—better than any one of the individual farmers could afford to maintain.

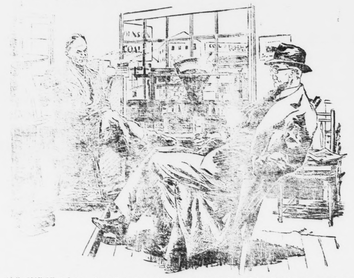
To properly conduct the insemination, the group should have available a qualified veterinarian. He need not be on a full time basis, but should devote sufficient time to check on all breedings as well as perform the actual insemination. If the organization is sufficiently large he could be engaged on a full time basis, devoting part of his time to disease control and preventative work.

WE ARE RESENTFUL . . . Hens, resentful and envious of the "Slick Chick" designation, which with utter shamelessness has been bestowed upon human femmes, at long last have come to the fore and demanded their equal rights. The Poultry and Egg National board, realizing the justice of their claims, is conducting a nationwide search for the most beautiful hen in all America, who will be crowned "Miss Slick Chick of 1947," and will be guest of honor at world premiere of "The Egg and I."

Planting Trees

Ease in planting trees at uniform distances in straight rows may be secured by the board marker shown in illustration. The length of the board will depend on the type of tree and distance to be spaced.

OLD JUDGE SAYS...



OLD JUDGE—Jerry, the folks up at the hospital want me to come down and talk to you about trying to go the hospital drive.

JERRY—I feel honored Judge But there's nothing I'd like to see done.

OLD JUDGE—Then what about that, Jerry?

JERRY—Well, they said the new addition will include a clinic for the treatment of chronic alcoholics. The time will come when every enlightened community will realize that alcoholism is a disease and not a vice, as many other Scientists have proved by research it must be treated professionally. You've got to get at the underlying causes of the alcoholic's abnormal behaviour.

OLD JUDGE—"Don't worry about the clinic Jerry. The plans are all prepared and the Board has silently talked to a young up and coming doctor who has studied alcoholism at one of the big universities. As soon as the clinic is ready he'll come here and take charge. Incidentally, Jerry, you've added a problem to the future you're creating—a good education for your children, a secure old age for yourself. Every signed payroll saving bond you sign is a personal investment in your children—remember that. That's just as real as any other investment.

You've got to get at the underlying causes of the alcoholic's abnormal behaviour.

JERRY—That's fine Judge. You can count on me now that we're going at this thing sensibly and scientifically.

KNOW YOUR BREED
Cheviot
By W. J. DEYDEN

Cheviot sheep are one of the oldest purebred varieties in the world. Prolific hardy, with little oil in their wool, they produce an exceptionally high class of fleece.

The mutton may be classed as among the very best. It contains about the right degree of fatness and is high in grain and flavor.

A beautiful breed, with fleece from 4 to 5 inches long in one year, and rams clipping between 8 and 10 pounds, it has proven its worth as a general purpose sheep. According to breed standards a mature ram in good flesh should weigh 135 pounds or more and a mature ewe, 140 pounds or more.

Keeping the Farm in The Family Forever

Thousands of elderly farmers carried on while their sons were fighting the war. Many of them now are seeking a way to retire and transfer their farms to younger hands.

Those retiring farmers want to be fair, both to the son and to his brothers and sisters. Today's swiftmoving events demand that farm property arrangements be kept sound and continue for the welfare of nation and family.

UNIVERSALLY POPULAR

The "Sunday School Lesson" published each week in this newspaper has been adopted by thousands of church instructors throughout the United States as a regular part of their weekly work.

It is a review and exposition of the international lesson for each week prepared by Dean Harold L. Lundquist of the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago, a recognized leader in the nation's church work. Dean Lundquist has been active in teaching youthful groups for years, thereby acquiring an insight into the needs of these people for understandable explanations of Bible passages.

In view of his accomplishments in church work, it is not surprising that Dean Lundquist's exposition of the weekly Sunday School lesson is being used in almost every community of the nation. As teacher or student you will find it extremely helpful.

Hike Potato Sales By New Packaging

Paper Bags Provide Ideal Retail Units

Millions of pounds of potatoes are getting a new ride to market this year.

They are riding in new paper bags, made of "wet strength" paper which absorbs moisture without breaking. They are going in 10, 15 and 50 pound quantities which retail stores can sell immediately without further sorting, sacking or handling.

Wet strength paper bags meet with consumer acceptance.

At one time, not so long ago, all grades, sizes and quantities, including culls, were shipped in burlap bags. Merchants had to sort and package the vegetables. Today an ever-growing number of shippers are pre-packaging potatoes in the new paper bags. This means a little more work, but it pays in providing a better-selected, higher quality and more uniform product. The store gets clean, graded potatoes packaged in retail-size bags which can be sold at once.

Wet strength paper was developed before the war but its merchandizing potentialities were not utilized until this year.
